This registry would not have been possible without the help and cooperation of the many boat owners who gathered the information, sent it to us, and put up with our incessant questioning. There are a number of people who not only supplied information about their own boat, but also joined the crusade in helping to gather information about other boats and helping to track down the missing ones. To these people we give our special thanks: Maynard Bray, Chuck Paine, Phil Tobey, Bill Beardsley, Andrew MacKeith, Steve Ballentine, George W. Zachorne, Jr., George Emery, Steve White, Jaliene Hollister, James Wallace, Bill Cooper, John Palmieri, Stanley Pendleton, Kurt Hasselbalch, Tracy Marves, Charlie Dhyse, Chris Overshiner, Tom Kiley, Dan De Leiris, David Jenney, Michael Pesare, Bill Harding, Wendy Goodwin and Carol Reinisch.

Foreword

The research behind this project started out after I acquired my own boat. Its hull plate was missing, and I became determined to figure it out so that I could get her history, her original name, etc. My research took two main paths: 1.) document how the construction characteristics evolved over time to enable the determination of a group of potential boats; and 2.) document the whereabouts of each of the original 364 vessels so that process of elimination could be used in conjunction with the construction characteristics.

Documentation of the construction characteristics has been tedious and confusing, but rewarding nonetheless. Most of what has been put together is published as Appendix C. Determining the whereabouts of each of the 364 boats has proven to be way more difficult than originally thought. The original intent was to be finished by the end of 2004, in time for the 90th anniversary of the class. That just did not happen (though I am still plugging away and welcome any leads on boats that have yet to be found). This document is the first edition of a work in progress. I intend to keep it updated as boats change hands and as additional ones are discovered. Please keep me informed of any information you may find that might help in this effort.

The Herreshoff 12-1/2 Footer

Nat Herreshoff designed the 12 ½ footer in 1914. It has been in continuous production since then, and is nearly universally acclaimed as one of the finest small boats of all time. He was 66 years old by then, and had all the experience from a full and legendary career of designing and building yachts. He had already accumulated 5 of the never-matched record of 6 consecutive America's Cup defenses, and 6 consecutive victories.

The Herreshoff Manufacturing Company took the first orders for the 12 ½ footer in 1914 and built 364 wooden hulls through 1943. Following the closing of HMC production, the Quincy Adams Yacht Yard was licensed by HMC to build the design. Quincy Adams used the Herreshoff builder's plate, and built 51 hulls from 1943 through 1948. The Quincy Adams boats had hull numbers in the 2000's, and were planked with mahogany rather than the white cedar used by HMC. They also have something of a reverse sheer forward.

In 1947, Cape Cod Shipbuilding acquired the rights to the design. They built about 35 wooden hulls between 1948 and 1950, when they switched to fiberglass. You can still get a new fiberglass 12 ½ from Cape Cod Shipbuilding today. Cape Cod Shipbuilding also brought out a modification of the original, designed by Nat's oldest son, Sidney. Called the Cape Cod Bullseye, it is a fiberglass version of the 12 ½ hull with a small cuddy cabin.

Another company, Doughdish, Inc., is building a fiberglass version of the 12 ½. Since Cape Cod's rights prohibit anyone else from using the trademarked name "Herreshoff 12 ½", the boat is called Doughdish. The molds were created by taking the lines from three original wooden hulls. Bill Harding, the creator of the Doughdish, took great pains to ensure his boat was an exact replica of the original, even eschewing the weight reductions afforded by fiberglass construction to ensure the Doughdish is authentic in every way (other than building material). In fact, the Doughdish is allowed to compete against the original wooden boats in association regattas, while the Cape Cod Shipbuilding 12 ½ is not.

If you look at a 12 ½ out of the water, you can't help but notice the seductive shape and subtle reverse curves of her underbody. It is thanks to this shape that the boat can ghost along so well in only the lightest breath of air while all the other boats in the water stand still. The helm balance is perfect. They may be slow by today's standards and handle somewhat poorly in confined spaces, but they are well-mannered, roomy, dry, and seaworthy.

Overview of the Research Project

The research described here started as an effort to determine the hull number of my own boat, which was acquired with a missing builder's plate. The hull number is the key piece of data, allowing one to determine the original owner, the original name, the vintage, and the configuration information needed to do an authentic restoration.

This quest for a lost hull number took 3 concurrent paths:

1. Track down the ownership chain
2. Identify the group of possible boats based on configuration
3. Process of elimination using known boats

Each path contributes important knowledge to the quest, and each must be explored if there is to be a successful discovery of the missing hull number.

Identifying a Specific Boat

A boat's hull number is the key to identifying a specific boat. With this number, you can determine when she was built, to whom she was first sold, and in many cases her original name. If you are doing an authentic restoration, this number is also important in understanding how she was originally configured. Unfortunately, many Herreshoff boats have lost their builder's plates. Though it may prove nearly impossible to determine a boat's hull number without the plate, there are several paths that can be explored to attempt identification.

The identification of my own boat, EL SYD, illustrates some of the avenues available. The boat's plate was missing when I acquired her, and the prior owner knew nothing of her history. Without any leads to trace back the ownership chain, my first thought was to use process of elimination. That, of course, meant locating all 364 boats and turned out to be nearly impossible. The effort to locate as many boats as possible was the impetus for creation of this owner's registry. Realizing that locating all of the boats would be difficult at best, my next avenue was identifying a subset of the boats based on construction characteristics that EL SYD was a member of, and applying the process of elimination to that subset. This also turned out to be nearly impossible, one major reason being the fact that the boats have changed from original over the years during maintenance. Documenting the evolution of the construction characteristics is useful, though, in estimating a boat's age as long as one is alert that some components may not be original.

I eventually identified EL SYD by discovering the ownership trail, and have come to the conclusion that tracing this trail is the only practical way to identify an anonymous boat. The prior owner could remember only 2 items of value: 1) it was purchased from a small yard in Mattapoisett, and 2.) The name "Noble" was stenciled on the sail bag. These 2 pieces of information turned out to be quite useful. The sails that came with the boat were built by Harding Sails, and carried the number 64. A phone call to Bill Harding revealed that the only gaff-rigged 12 ½ sails he built with the number "64" were sold to a Peter Noble of Pembroke, Massachusetts. An Internet search turned up Mr. Noble's phone number, and he confirmed that he did indeed once own the boat, and sold it through David Peterson of The Wooden Tangent in Mattapoisett.

Discussion with Mr. Noble revealed that he had also bought the boat through David Peterson, and that the prior owner was Charlene Sperry, ex-wife of sail maker Steve Sperry. A few phone calls later, I learned that Mr. Sperry got the boat from Mary Trautman of Marion, who in turn got it from Charlie Shumway, now living in Florida. Mr. Shumway remembers very little about the boat. He remembered only that he got it from a local Marion man, and was able to confirm that entries for a Charlie Shumway, sailing a 12 ½ named PETREL with sail number H-18 in the 1961 - 1964 Beverly Yacht Club yearbooks are this boat, but the trail ran cold there.

I then realized that the accepted practice was to keep the sail number with the boat. I went back to the Beverly Yacht Club Yearbooks and looked backward from 1961 for a boat with sail number H-18. I discovered the owner before Mr. Shumway was a Richard Heath, and before him Noble Foss, the original owner. EL SYD is hull number 1065, built in 1928 for Noble Foss and christened MERGANSER.

Documenting the Construction Evolution

The most fascinating, and controversial, part of this research is the documentation of the evolution of the construction characteristics of the 12 ½ footer. The theory is that matching up identifying characteristics of the subject boat with the group of boats that were built to that configuration will provide the group of possible hull numbers. This group of hull numbers can then be the basis of a process of elimination using known hull numbers.

Of course, that is only the theory. In practice, this has turned out to be much more difficult. There are a number of reasons for this difficulty:

- There are no records or documentation describing how the configurations evolved over the years.
- What information does exist comes from the experience of working boat builders and from marine historians. In many cases, these interpretations differ, and can actually become quite controversial.
- These boats are quite old, and most have undergone repairs and restoration over the years. Unfortunately, not all of the builders who have done this work have had an eye for detail or paid attention to authenticity. It takes careful observation when looking at a boat to decide which details are original or authentic enough to use for identification purposes.

That being said, there are quite a number of clues that can be used to narrow a subject boat down to a reasonably close vintage estimate. A table of these indicators has been published in the appendices. Keep in mind that the information is still incomplete.

The primary indicators are the trim wood, the deck and bulkhead material, and the hardware. The trim was changed from oak to mahogany in 1936, the decks and bulkheads changed from cedar planking to plywood in 1931, and there were a number of hardware changes made in 1931 as well. The details are in the appendix of this document.

As yet not completely documented are the transom changes. George W. Zachorne, Jr., the well-reputed restoration specialist, as well as several other builders, have described changes to the transom over the years. The earliest transoms were 5/8" thick and had an apron frame on the inside perimeter. The planks making up these transoms were pinned together with wooden dowels, and had light vertical framing inside them that came up through the deck. The sternposts were cut off below the level of the deck, which was flat across without crown. These transoms also had a slight (about one inch) radius. In the early 1920's, the transoms were made ¾" thick and the dowels were changed to iron rod. The vertical frames inside the transom were eliminated, and the sternpost was extended through the deck, which was given about ½" of crown. In the mid to later 1920's (by 1928), the apron frame on the inside of the transom was eliminated. When the switch from oak to mahogany occurred in about 1936, the transom was changed to 7/8" thick and flat across without radius. The sternpost had to be made wedge-shaped for proper rudder alignment, and the bottom end of the sternpost was widened to about five inches to do this.

During the busiest years of production in the late 1920's, the company had 3 molds to accommodate the volume of orders. It has been rumored amongst the cognoscenti that the first building jig produced a slightly different boat. In George's opinion, the earliest boats using the first mold do look different than the others, almost dainty.

The Mystique of the Herreshoff Builder's Plate

This project would never have started if EL SYD had not lost her builder's plate. It turns out that many boats are in this predicament. Some of the plates were probably lost as a result of storm damage and some misplaced during a varnishing session. But others are not where they belong purposely. And the missing plate phenomenon is common to Herreshoff boats in general, not only the 12 ½'s.

In one case, a 12 ½ was sitting overnight at a gas station while repairs were being made to her trailer. A thief made off with the plate, but nothing else. In another case, a savvy owner had a replica plate built for his boat, and he has the original at home for safe keeping. In another case, a new owner found a previous owner from 50 years prior. That prior owner still had the plate and considered it a cherished keepsake.

If not for the mystique of the Herreshoff builder's plate, we would probably have far fewer anonymous boats.

Developing the Registry

The registry is a living document, and is a key component to hull number research. It is the basis from which a process of elimination can be conducted. The intention was to determine the whereabouts of each of the original 364 HMC boats by the end of 2004, in time for the 90th anniversary of the class. That simply did not happen. I was not able to devote the amount of time required to achieve that goal. Additionally, much of the information about boats that have been destroyed is just not available. Nonetheless, there are still many leads yet to track down.

To be registered, a boat must have a confirmed hull number. In most cases, a positive contact with the owner or caretaker is made as well. As of this writing, we have registered 152 boats. 10 boats have been confirmed as destroyed, and there are 34 located but unregistered boats with missing hull numbers. There are also leads on about 70 boats that still need to be tracked down. We are estimating that of the 364 original HMC 12 ½ footers, about 200 still exist.

The latest iteration of the Registry is included in the appendices.

Lessons and Observations

Here are a few interesting observations:

- There are about 20 boats still belonging to the families of their original owners.
- Owner's become emotionally attached to them, like members of the family. One owner, Norman Tate said that his boat, DERVISH III, "is just as much a part of me as an arm or leg". Another owner, the noted yacht designer Chuck Paine, said of his boat, PETUNIA, "I will never part with her at any price except by divine intervention". Bill Beardsley says of his boat, SHADOW, "She is a part of my family, and always will be".
- The boats are timeless. Of the original 20 boats sold in 1914, we have found 15 still sailing. The first, ROBIN, is still unaccounted for, though.
- Some people are very cooperative. Others are not. It is very frustrating when the person you are talking to could provide valuable data, but simply is not inclined to do so. Several boats will go unidentified due to lack of cooperation. On the other hand, quite a number of people put in quite a number of hours of their personal time chasing and documenting leads. It is only with this kind of help that this project will ever get finished.

- The Internet is a great resource, especially for finding people. Nothing, however, replaces good old fashioned personal contact.
- Much of the information lies in the memories of older people. These are old boats and old memories. Get the information now or lose it forever.
- These boats are old and have had repairs done over the years. Much of the work done on them has not been with strict attention to authenticity and detail. As an example, only 7 Improved Models (aka Fisher's Island Model) were built. The new owner of one of them is rebuilding it to a standard configuration, losing its authenticity forever. The lesson to be learned is this: use reputable, experienced builders to ensure an authentic restoration.
- Confirming the numbers of boats that have been destroyed is very difficult, as nobody remembers the hull numbers.
- Quite a few boats were either destroyed in the hurricane of 1938 or were damaged and lost their builder's plate. Additionally, Barden's Boat Yard used to have a rental fleet. Some of the plates were lost or misassigned during annual maintenance. Others have been held by prior owners or stolen. If you have your original builder's plate, take good care of it.
- In addition to the Registry and Configuration Evolution Table, this research has also resulted in an electronic database storing all of the information that has been gathered. It can be used to produce mailing lists and can answer specific queries, such as "How many boats have been found in Maine" or "What is the breakdown of gaff vs. Marconi rig".

Originally ordered by W. O. Taylor, publisher of The Boston Globe. Augustus H. Fiske bought her a few years later from a Mr. Goodwin, and renamed her from "Peggy" to "Little Kittie" after one of his daughters. She was sailed by the family into the 1940's, was sold a few times, and got back into the Fiske family in 1952 when she was bought by Andrew Fiske, one of Augustus' sons. Andrew passed away, and Alice "Allie" Fiske still owns her. She intends on passing the boat down through her family. It has been in Maine for the past few years getting restored. This restoration was completed in late summer 2004, and she was relaunched in Camden harbor. She will be going back to Shelter Island to Sylvester Manor, where she will again sail in the warmer waters of Long Island Sound.

Dr. James Wallace of Cambridge and Cohasset acquired this boat in 1967. He removed the thwart and renamed her from Porpoise to Wizard of Bristol. Wizard is on the transom. She is in good shape, with some sistered ribs. It has replacement spars, but otherwise the boat is original. He bought it in 1967 for $100 from Dr. Bremen of Cohasset, who had bought from the original owner, Hallowell. Dr. Wallace donated the boat to the Herreshoff Marine Museum in 2005. She has not sailed since 2003.

F.G. Bourne	1915 - ????		Kiddie
Fred Hard	? - 8/2001	Stamford, CT

The original owner was Commodore Bourne, who made his fortune as the President of Singer Sewing Machines. You may remember that "The Commodore" was the Commodore of the New York Yacht Club around the turn of the century, when Captain Nat was knocking out some rather exceptional Cup Defenders. His house still stands not too far away from his 12, as the former home of the LaSalle Military Academy, and is now home to the Sayville Campus of Saint John's University.

Hull #768 was purchased for the Commodore's daughter to sail. In order to bring it with them on their Mediterranean vacations, #768 was equipped with two rather large ring bolts through the fore and after decks. With these, the 12 was lifted aboard the Commodore's rather large steam yacht. After all these years, the lift rings are still present, as is the transom design with the interior bracing. There is no rowing thwart, but the usual bench seats. The forward end of the cockpit has an open arch cut into the bulkhead, with varnished wood trim pieces framing the opening.

Now named Avalon, 768 is on display at the Long Island Maritime Museum. It was donated to the museum on August 2001 by Fred Hard, grandson of the original owner.

"In July 2015, the ABM acquired Silhouette from Judge Bryan for use in its in water fleet. The boat will be used to give museum visitors rides and to educate and train the next generation of young sailors." (source: submitted online) previous note: Original owner Daniel Bacon was a member of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club in New York. [Until 2015 the boat was] owned by Alden Bryan, a superior court judge in Vermont. Judge Bryan bought it through Pendleton Yacht Yard after they had completely restored it in 2000. It is now in excellent condition and sails on Lake Champlain. Stanley Pendleton converted it's then marconi rig to it's current gaff rig (as it was originally) when he restored it.

Ron Render	1990 - 2000	San Diego, CA	Loafer
Jack Sutphen	2000 - 2013	San Diego, CA	Loafer

Jack Sutphen owned Loafer and sailed her in San Diego harbor. Jack had worked as coach and skipper of the Dennis Connor trial horses. Jack bought the boat from Ron Render, who got her from a John Burton of South Boston in January of 1990. John had got it from a school teacher who had owned her for about 15-20 years. The schoolteacher bought her from Bill Harding, who used her as one of the boats to take lines from for the Doughdish.

Jack passed away in early 2013, and possession of the boat transferred to his good friend John DeForest.

The boat is kept on Isle La Motte Vermont and sailed on Lake Champlain. The builder's plate was stolen while the trailer was being repaired. The boat has never needed total restoration, though the transom has been replaced and decks recanvassed by a boat shop associated with the Lake Champlain Maritime Museum some 15 years ago. She is sailed regularly.

This boat probably went to Marion, MA. The prior owner got the boat several years ago from someone in Boothbay Harbor. It is in excellent condition. It is oak with a marconi rig. He sails it in Belfast, Maine. Hull was refastened in 1981 and 1982, two rivets per frame, by Gordon Swift and Brian Foss (the original fastenings were left intact). Dark-green topsides with white boottop and decks. Stanley Pendleton is giving it a complete restoration

Henry L. Maxwell
William J. Strawbridge	1938 - 1978	Northeast Harbor, ME	Heffalump

This boat is on exhibit at the Herreshoff Marine Museum. It has a square-profile tiller, and the rear deck is canvas-covered. The name on the transom is 'Heffalump'. It was one of the 6 boats in the Larchmont class. It was sold by Henry L. Maxwell to William J. Strawbridge in 1938. It was donated to the museum by Mr. Strawbridge in 1978. The boat has a Leg O' Mutton (Marconi) rig, and was the 7th boat to be so configured.

Phil Tobey	1947 - 1978	Hingham, MA	Thistle

Thistle was owned by Phil Tobey of Hingham, MA. The boat was destroyed in a storm in February of 1978. Phil broke the boat up and had a new fiberglass boat build by Cape Cod Shbuilding. He used the spars from the original in his new boat. The spars have since been sent to the Herreshoff Museum, and the original transom is on a wall in his house.

Carol Reinisch	???? - 1997	Falmouth, MA	Seal

Seal is good shape, the hull is painted blue with white bottom; seats, spruce mast, boom, gaff and forestaysail boom and oak trim are all varnished, deck canvas is a cream/yellow color. The canvas was replaced in 2001. Interior is white with relatively new oiled teak flooring. A fiberglass layer was applied below the water line at some time before Mr. Moore purchased the boat on February 8, 1997 for $9000 from Carol Reinisch, of 45 Marvin Circle, Falmouth, MA. Seal was maintained by the boat builders Eldred-Cooper in Woods Hole, MA prior to Bob's purchase. Mr. Cooper indicated that he had maintained the boat for many years, and the boat was originally located around New Bedford, MA.

Magic was purchased by Charles F and Janet Barbour in August 2016. She is now located in Wickford, RI. Over the Winter of 2016, George W Zachorne did more restoration work, to include a new transom and rudder, corrected for the time the boat was constructed, as well as recanvassing the afterdeck. She also has new sails, from Gambell & Hunter. The owners have the original builders plate. (source: email)

[previous notes - 10/22/2003: Eyesweet is owned by Douglas Viehmann and Ann Vivian of Burlington, VT, and sailed by David Vivian of Saunderstown, RI. George W. Zachorne, Jr. did a conservative restoration on her between 1996-98. David wanted to preserve as much of the original wood as practical. Her original name was Little Lady and was delivered to Bristol, MA. The builder's plate is kept in a safe deposit box in Vermont. She was sailed from the Lake Champlain Yacht Club from 1984 until 1996, underwent George's two year re-build, and was re-launched in July 1998 at the Saunderstown Yacht Club. Doug and Ann purchased her in September 1983 from a young woman sailmaker in Bristol, MA who had owned her for three years.]

Owned by Susan Maffei Plowden of Jamestown, RI. She was found in an old mill in Wickford, RI where she had been stored by the Reiser family (E. Greenwich, RI), who had owned her since the '60's. She has been fully restored by John Plowden and a couple of students from the International Yacht Restoration School. Grace was relaunched in Oct. '01 in Jamestown, RI. Original parts include all planking (exc. garboards), keel, sheerstrake, seats, mast/spars. New parts incl. the transom (oak), toerail and covering boards, floors, ribs, bulkheads, floorboards, and standing and running rigging. Most of the hardware is original, though there are a couple of parts from J. Reineck.

Tarbaby, #1047, built for Arthur Lyman and is now owned by the husband of Lyman's grand-daughter (who was a Simmons). The boat is in bad shape, and they have resisted attempts by people to buy and restore her. However, they donated her to the Cohasset Yacht Club on 2003. The boat was then given to Alfred Slanetz, owner of the NY30 Cara Mia, under the proviso that he restore her. Alfred will be giving the job to MPG.

Bob Pierce	???? - 1998	Cranston, RI	Rambler

This boat was brokered by Charlie Dhyse of Maine Coast Boathouse. The boat is currently waiting restoration by the owner. It may have been a racing champion in Marblehead in the 1950's.

2018.12.26: The record of this boat is being reviewed and more of the provenance is being filled in: Charles C. Pyne was the owner of a 12 $\frac{1}{2}$; "Rambler" in Marblehead and sailed out of the Eastern Yacht Club from the mid-50s until his death in 1962. The boat was purchased from Wilson Palmer of Marblehead, also an EYC member, who owned her from early 1940s and possibly earlier. (source: email - Charles Pyne)

2019.01.15: According to the Eastern Yacht Club annual books, Rambler was owned by Wilson Palmer 1950-1958 and Charles C. Pyne 1959-1962. She is not listed before 1950 or after 1962. (source: email - Charles Pyne))

Additional updates will be added once more details are available.

2016.07.26:

"Further upgrades to BANDIT commenced on May 23, 2016 when hull# 1137 was returned to Bristol, RI to have her white oak transom replaced and all planks below the waterline splined for increased tightness and recaulking. Both tasks were completed by East Passage Boatwrights of Bristol, RI on June 7, 2016." (source: email)

previous note: BANDIT was donated to the Museum by Mary Janney in about 2000. She is the daughter of the original owner. She sailed it from the Quisset Yacht Club. The current owner, a 1995 graduate of the Landing School of Boatbuilding & Design Small Boat Program, took the lead in completely rebuilding BANDIT and had it restored at Mt. Hope Boatworks in Bristol. Seth Hagen and Bro Dunn, professional boatbuilders and the current owner completed the restoration over a 2 1/2 year period under the watchful eye of Jim Titus, owner of Mt Hope Boatworks. BANDIT is approximately 85%+ new construction. The only original materials from her original construction in 1930 besides some of her hardware are her keel plank, deadwood, lead ballast, sheer clamps port and starboard and her original planking starting with the planks below her sheer plank, all the way down to her broad planks, both port and starboard. Extra care went into the selection of BANDIT's new white oak coamings and new Herreshoff style sheer strakes or rub rails. Both the coamings and sheer strakes are matchbook quarter-sawn white oak. All planks are full length, without butt blocks. BANDIT, purchased from the Herreshoff Museum, was in near derelict condition when purchased but still had her shape and represented a good reconstruction candidate, helped by a new white oak transom that the owner guesses was replaced approximately ten years earlier and done well enough to retain. Original builder's plate is in hand #1137. BANDIT sports all new silicon bronze bolting, all new silicone bronze fasteners and Jim Reineck & Son Herreshoff reproduction hardware. BANDIT can usually be seen participating in the annual Herreshoff Classic Boat Regatta in Bristol, RI.

Owned by Stephen V. Millet, proprietor of the Wood And Water boat shop in Wickford, RI. The boat was originally built for Mr. Millet's grandfather, Charles B. Rockwell, and has been in the family ever since. Mr. Millet plans to pass her to his son. He recently rebuilt her, including new decks fore and aft, coamings, matched white oak from a single piece, covering boards and all trim in bird's eye maple. He also replaced the transom with one made out of black locust. Her tiller is hand carved out of bird's eye maple with a skull with black top hat at end for grip. It does not have the correct seats

William W. Beardsley III	1971 - 2015	Marion, MA	Shadow	H-107

12/09/2016 - notes from Carter Richardson, new owner and owner of East Passage Boatwrights in Bristol, RI: work on her includ[ed] a couple of new underwater planks, sheer strake repair, some new frames, new deck canvas (sunbrella), new sole and coamings and some spar repairs.

7/23/2004: Owned by Bill Beardsley of Marion, MA., who also has a Herreshoff 15, totally restored by MP&G. Bill has owned Shadow since 1971, and always will. Her original name was "Betty" (after the daughter of the original owner, Butler, who Bill knew). She does not have the hull plate. She was delivered in May of 1930 to Barden's Boat Yard in Marion, which acted (and still occasionally does) as an agent for the boats. That summer, she appeared in the Beverly Yacht Club register as belonging to a summer resident of Marion named Butler, brother-in-law to the Converses of Marion. Because the HMC records show her going to Barden's, we are not 100% sure the Butlers were the first owners, but it stands to reason. The Converse family had her thru the war and she eventually went to another family in Marion named Robinson. Bill bought her from another Marion family, the DeWalts. They said they bought her from someone in R.I., so that piece is missing. She's in good condition, although not perfect. She's had all new frames & floor timbers, a few new planks or pieces of planks, a new aft deck and transom, the latter twice. She's perfectly sound, although her hull isn't as fair as desired, considering the new frames and fastenings. She has been to many events at the Herreshoff Museum. Katy-Did, hull #1159, was one of Bill's grandfather's (Herbert Newbury) two boats, named after his aunt Katherine. Delivered 5/9/1930.

Cape Cod Shipbuilding has this hull. A customer purchased a new fiberglass boat from them and wanted to destroy the wooden one. They took all of the hardware, the seats & keel out to be used in her fiberglass boat except for the chain plates. They kept the wooden hull, where it still sits in deteriorating condition. They still have the builder's plate.

Placido Erveson	1954 - 1958	Fisher's Island, NY	Target
Ray Westcott	1958 - 1964	Old Greenwich, CT	Target
Owen Brooks	1964 - 1981	Amityville, NY	Target

This boat was at the Herreshoff yard when damaged by the 1938 hurricane. This is why the port-side coaming is pieced together - it was broken horizontally by the storm. She was purchased by Becky Herreshoff and re-built by Sydney Herreshoff for sons Nathanael and Halsey to learn to sail in. It has 2-piece seats and chromed bronze hardware. It was donated to museum in 1981 by Owen E. Brooks. This one is a real mystery, because the building record states that hull 1376 was not built. However, it was part of the factory mixup where the actual assigned numbers did not match the records. According to John Palmieri of the Herreshoff Museum, this is NOT the actual hull number of Minx. He believes they found this plate lying around unused (as it would be if the corresponding hull was never built), and simply attached it to Minx, which was missing it's plate.

Bernard Smith	? - 1972	North Haven, ME	Bassinet

Petunia has been proudly owned by Chuck Paine of Tenants Harbor, Maine for the last 30 years. Chuck is a well known yacht designer and artist, and his work graced the cover of version 1 of this registry. He bought her in 1972 from Bernard Smith of North Haven. Her name at that time was Bassinet. He had bought her as an investment when the Dark Harbor (Islesboro) fleet broke up, because the millionaire owners got tired of the expense of maintaining their boats. Chuck paid $1350 for her, and Bernard thought he'd bested a young city slicker on the deal. Chuck says he "will never part with her at any price except by divine intervention".

It has plywood fore and aft decks that are canvas covered. George W. Zachorne, Jr. bought this 12 ½ in 1985 as a wreck, from Eric Johansson of North Kingstown, RI, intending to keep it for himself. In 1986 he found himself with out any work and sold the boat to Sandy Crouchley of Bristol, RI. Poppy was back at his shop for more repairs and general maintenance over a ten year period. She took first place in the Herreshoff Rendezvous in 1987. The boat is currently used by the Herreshoff Museum Sailing Program.

William Saltonstall	? - 1991	North Haven, ME	Greased Lightning

Greased Lightning, #1447, is one of the group of boats bought by members of the North Haven Yacht Club in 1938. Sixteen were ordered at the time at $890. The numbers moved around a little with owners not necessarily getting the boats that are listed against their name on the HMC list. So #1447 ended up in the Saltonstall family, owned by Mrs. R.M. Saltonstall. Greased Lightning came to Penobscot Marine Museum in 1991, as a gift of Mrs. Emily Saltonstall Byrd and William Saltonstall who had grown up sailing the boat. Locally, they were known as Fox Eyes. She is pretty complete and in good condition having raced the year before she came to the museum. She has one of the late plates.

Owned by Janice Williams of Bristol, Rhode Island. Sailed by Janice's daughter Shawen and her husband Andrew MacKeith, commodore of the Naragansett Bay Herreshoff 12 ½ Footer Association. Condition is excellent, and is sailed regularly. At one time she was sunk to avoid a hurricane. She is kept in the barn at Fish Hawk Farm in Bristol where the air is damp in summer and not too cold in winter. In the summer she stays on the mooring outside the house. She was not used from 1977 to 1992, and some other periods. Fish Hawk was ordered after the 1938 hurricane (The 1938 hurricane did a lot of damage in Bristol) and was delivered in 1939, for Janice's 16th birthday. The sheer strake is mahogany, a single piece mast partner, a Marconi rig, and one-piece seats.

This boat is still owned by the original family. The original owners were the family of Dr. Benjamin H. Alton and Elizabeth Moen Alton. The name Daphie is from the four Alton children (D orothy, A lison, PH I lip and E lizabeth). The restoration of this boat is the subject of a 2008 book by Daniel Robb, SLOOP. It is worthwhile noting that the record has #1486 being bought by Dr. Benjamin Alton. This is not the case ...he bought 1471. There must have been a mixup in the office.

Owned by Mary Howe DeWolf Shepherd of Bristol, RI. It has plywood fore and aft decks that are canvas covered. It was bought to replace Rhode Island Red (Hull # 1117, built in 1929), which was lost in the 1938 Hurricane. She was damaged in the 1960 hurricane, and the wreck was bought and restored by Jack Tiplady. Eventually, she was re-purchased by Mary Howe DeWolfe, her original owner and is still in the DeWolfe family. George W. Zachorne, Jr. started working on her in 1990.

Viking was beautifully restored by Ballentine's Boat Shop and is exquisitely maintained there. She is energetically raced and has won the last two Junior H Class Championships. She spends most of the summer taking us on picnics and sails out into Buzzards Bay. She has survived the learning experiences of numerous children plus many unplanned encounters with sandbars, docks and anchor flukes. Despite that, she is still a head-turner wherever she sails.

Owned by the Newcombe's of Bristol, RI. Original owner was Edsel B. Ford, who sailed it in Maine. It has plywood fore and aft decks that are canvas covered. This boat was completely restored by George W. Zachorne, Jr. in the winter of 1990-91. According to Ms. Newcomb, this boat replaced the original Frolic (Hull #1475) which was lost in the 1950's. The boat is used in the Herreshoff Museum sailing program.

Jalien believes Rocket is hull 1488, though that is not what the builder's plate says. She got the boat in 1968 from a Mrs. Walmsley. The plate on the boat says 1473, which belongs to a yacht tender. We suspect that an owner may have switched the plates during maintenance by mistake.

This boat is a Fisher's Island Model (or an 'improved model' in HMC record). Her builder's plate is starboard of the mast on the main beam – it must have been moved there by one of the boat's owners. The current owners bought her from Stu Hample in 2003, and keep her on Shelter Island. Stu had it for about 7 or 8 years. He bought it from a Boston woman named Bonnie Robinson, through Bud Thayer's Y-Knot Boat Yard in North Haven, Me, where it had been unused for 4 years under the name "Jedda." He had Thayer completely refit and paint it after it was surveyed by Sam Slaymaker.

Andy Mutch	1996 - 2006	Boothbay Harbor, ME	Wasp

This boat was purchased by Pamela Lenehan in September, 2006. Pam is making the boat available for the Herreshoff Museum Sailing School. Previously, Wasp was owned by Andy Mutch and his wife of Annapolis, MD. She sailed her in Linekin Bay, near the summer home in Boothbay. She was restored by Rick Prose of West Boothbay Harbor, Maine, Finest Kind Wooden Boats, in 2002. She was bought from the Herreshoff Museum. They went on a trial sail with Halsey Herreshoff. She is an 'improved model', which means she has wider sidedecks, copper flotation tanks, a raised lazarette, and an over-the-transom tiller. According to Andy, Halsey told him that Sidney designed the improved model after his father capsized a boat in Bermuda or Florida. She originally had mahogany transom and coamings, though Rick replaced the transom with white oak.

It has canvas-covered plywood decks. Ben Strohecker, CEO of Harbor Sweets in Salem, MA owned her at the time she went to George W. Zachorne, Jr. for restoration. He hadn't gotten very far into the job when Ben decided to sell her. There is a candy named Sweet Sloop, which is shaped as this boat. She was sold to Don Stone of North Kingstown, RI. Don's intention was to restore her himself. After storing the boat for two years he sold her back to Zachorne. George noted that she showed poorer construction and slipshod use of material, as did Nuthatch. Needless to say, after George was finished she is in now top condition.

Nuthatch was totally restored her in the winter of 2001-02 by George W. Zachorne, Jr. She had previously been covered with fiberglass. This boat was apparently built with leftover pieces, as not all of her planks were of the same kind of wood, many being of Western red cedar. Prior to the restoration, the construction quality was poor, but she is now in quite good shape. Nuthatch was once sailed very successfully by Johnny Hallowell in the Wings Neck area of Buzzards Bay. It is discussed in the 2003 bestseller, The Big House, by George Howe Colt.

Hurrah is moored off the Essex Yacht Club in Essex, CT. She was donated (Ready Fox) to IYRS in 2008 and fully restored in 2009 by IYRS students. The new owner, Gerry Migliaccio, had the rig returned to the original gaff and the name returned to Hurrah. She has a light green hull, black boot stripe and red bottom. It is missing its builder's plate, but is believed to be from 1930-1931. Tom Hovey stored it inside in Gloucester, MA. It is white with a red boot and green bottom. It was originally gaff rigged, but there is also a marconi rig, which was made in 2002. The boat was restored in 2001 by Harold Burnham. He added new ribs (not sistered), replaced transom, replaced garboards. Tom acquired the boat from Leonard Perry, of Padanaram one-time commodore of the New Bedford Yacht Club, in about 1995. Leonard Perry got it in 1987 from Dan White of Mattapoisett. It was named Hurrah when Leonard owned it. Dan inherited the boat from his Dad, George White, who was an avid collector and had 7 boats at the time of his passing.

Bill Yetman	1968 - 1974		Gringolet
Eleanor Ferns	1974 - 2005		Gringolet

This boat was almost destroyed in 1954 by Hurricane Carol. Her keel, deadwood, stem, and a piece of the bow were all that remained. Her original bow hardware reveals her to be a genuine Herreshoff. She was rebuilt at the Quisset Boatyard by a team that included Bill Cooper of the Woods Hole Museum and was sold in 1956 to Ann and Marco Rivinus, who named her Triton and sailed her out of the Quisset Harbor Yacht Club. Hard times forced the Rivinus' to sell the boat, and it was purchased by Bill Yetman in 1968, who renamed her Gringolet (Sir Gwain's horse). He sailed it until 1974 when he sold it to the husband of Eleanor Ferns. Curt Brand purchased the boat in 2005 and refurbished it with the help and guidance of Eric Dow and his crew. In the summer of 2007 Ann Rivinus and her two daughters joined the Brands' in Buck's Harbor for a memorable sail. Curt is still searching for the original identity of the boat.

It is uncertain whether this boat is HMC or CCSB. When Warren bought the boat, the transom, shear strakes, and cockpit coamings were mahogany; the shear strakes are moulded and the transom is flat. The foredeck, bulkheads, and lazarette top are plywood. There is a bronze casting for the boom crutch in the lazarette top. The cedar planking was full-length, with no butt joints. When Warren bought her in 1977 she was Marconi rigged, but she has since been changed to gaff. She was restored by Warren, Gena, Quentin, and Jared Rohlfs and Zimmerman Marine.
